

VICE CHAIRPERSON

PRASETYOADI (TIYOK)

Tiyok Prasetyoadi is a professional architect and urban designer who currently serves as the Managing Director of PDW Architects, known formally as PT Pandega Desain Weharima. He has contributed extensively to architecture, planning, and sustainable urban development in Indonesia and the Asia Pacific region.

Tiyok holds a Bachelor of Architectural Engineering from Institut Teknologi Bandung, and a Master of Urban Development and Design from the University of New South Wales, Australia. He later completed the Leadership on Environment and Development Fellowship Program Indonesia in 2004, focusing on sustainability studies.

At Green Building Council Indonesia, Tiyok previously served as Director of International and Government Relations. He remains engaged with the broader global green building movement through his involvement in the Asia Pacific Network of the World Green Building Council. Nationally, he sits on the National Board of the Indonesian Architects Association (IAI) and serves as a member of the Building Expert Team for the Jakarta Provincial Government in architecture and city planning.

Through his work at PDW Architects and his active roles in professional organizations, Tiyok continues to advance sustainable architecture and urban planning practices across Indonesia and the region.
